Memo CP-D/456

Date: 9 March 2006

To: Distribution

From: O. Schwerer

Subject: 1. Update of dictionary 5 (Journals)
2. Dictionaries 21/22: COINC / COIN
(Reference: Memo CP-E/089 of 1 March 2006)

1. We propose the following new code for dictionary 5 (Journals):

VAC	Vacuum	2UK
	(published by Pergamon Press)

2. On the confusion between codes COIN and COINC for "coincidence":

We have in

Dictionary 21 (METHOD):	COINC	Coincidence
--------------------------------	-------	-------------

and

Dictionary 22 (DETECTOR):	COIN	Coincidence counter arrangement
----------------------------------	------	---------------------------------

Certainly the confusion comes from having these 2 different codes. This may be unfortunate (I don't know why it happened, these codes were introduced even before my time), but I agree with Naohiko that it's best to stick with the dictionary entries and correct any incorrect usage. I will take care of correcting the mistake in the Formats Manual and LEXFOR at the next updates.
