Memo CP-D/462

Date: 6 April 2006
To: Distribution
From: O. Schwerer
Subject: Journal code HIP (Entry C0791), new codes AHP/N and AHP/A

A journal code HIP ("Heavy Ion Physics") was proposed in memo CP-C/278 and is used in one entry, C0791. It was not added to dictionary 5 because (after a question about it in memo CP-C/323) its precise name and publisher were not clarified. This question is now solved as follows:

"Heavy Ion Physics" is actually the subtitle of the journal

Acta Physica Hungarica / New Series

which replaced Acta Physica Hungarica (EXFOR code: AHP¹) in 1995 and was published until 2003.

From 2004, it was replaced by

Acta Physica Hungarica A (Heavy Ion Physics)

and

Acta Physica Hungarica B (Quantum Electronics)

We propose to introduce these new codes:

AHP/N Acta Physica Hungarica New Series (Heavy Ion Physics) (published 1995-2003)

AHP/A Acta Physica Hungarica A (Heavy Ion Physics) (from 2004)

and to make AHP extinct.

AHP/B may be introduced later if it should occur in EXFOR.

NNDC is requested to change the reference in entry C0791 from HIP to AHP/N.

¹ If you wonder why the code for Acta Phys. Hung. is not APH: in dictionary 5, APH stands for Annales de Physique (Paris)
